The welcome mat is out for everyone

If you've ever wondered where to turn for services you need or where to go if you're interested in volunteering, then the Everyone for Edmonton is an event you don't want to miss.

This Sunday, Edmontonians are invited to come to the 2nd annual Everyone for Edmonton event happening at the Shaw Conference Centre from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The event is designed to raise awareness about the non-profit and voluntary organizations that exist in the Edmonton region, and provide members of the public with a chance to meet the people behind the causes, learn about the kinds of services offered and find out how to become involved as a volunteer.

The Shaw Conference Centre launched the event last year in celebration of its 25th anniversary.

"We made a commitment to make this a legacy event for the future," says Cliff Higuruchi, assistant general manager of the Shaw Conference Centre.

'SIZEABLE IMPACT'

Through his experience as one of the committee members who helped plan the event, Higuruchi realized that non-profit organizations have a "sizeable impact on the community."

That's why the Shaw Conference Centre is offering one and all this opportunity to connect with the community again.

The event will be an interactive information session, featuring a number of different and unique organizations all under roof.

"It's a great opportunity to come out and learn about things in the community," he says. "Even if you don't require a service, you might have an aging parent or a spouse that has a condition, and there are organizations that can assist you."

Organizers for Everyone for Edmonton hope to see the event continue to grow.

"If we can help non-profit organizations increase their profile and help them attract volunteers, that adds to community building and benefits everyone," Higuruchi explains.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

More than 125 non-profit/voluntary sector organizations of all types will be at the event.

Edmontonians are urged to attend. Come and see what your community has to offer - and think about what you have to offer your community!
